Indian Gaming Forum

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act of 1988 authorized tribal gaming as a means of promoting economic development, self-sufficiency, and strong tribal government. After its passage, the number of Indian gaming operations and gaming revenues increased dramatically. Today there are 415 Indian gambling facilities nationwide operated by more than 200 tribes. In 2006 Indian gaming revenues topped $25 billion, having nearly doubled in five years.

This forum will examine the growth of Indian gaming in the U.S., as well as its social and economic impacts.
